Household, Homehead Insects Call for Control Measures Now

Several household or homestead insects call for control measures now.

ELM LEAF BEETLES. These small, blackish larvae are on Chinese elms now. Use 50 per cent strength DDT wettable powder, at two to four tablespoons per gallon of water. Spray now and in three weeks. Cover foliage thoroughly.

ROSE THRIPS. These insects discolor roses by attacking the petals with rasping - sucking mouth parts. Dust or spray with DDT or Malathion. Follow label directions for mixing, application, safety measures. Cygon, a systemic material, also may be used. Apply weekly.

SOD WEBWORM: About two to four weeks from now (mid-June to late June) will be a good time to spray against this pest. Flights of the egg-laying moths are increasing. Use Sevin. Follow label directions carefully. Use three to five gallons of water (for the spray mix) per 1,000 square feet of lawn.

ANTS: These pests are entering houses in search of food. Spray outside foundations with one-half of one percent strength Dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate, or two percent strength Chlordane concentrate. Spray soil a foot out from the house and up the foundation a foot above the ground. Do this monthly. You may want to spray window sills, too.

Mr. Garlen Byrd and family have gone to Dayton, Ohio, to make their home. Garlen is employed there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henegar, Covington, are spending their vacation with Mrs. Henegar's mother, Mrs. Margaret Parker. Miss Judy Black, Cincinnati, is visiting Miss Lorraine Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Thompson, Austin, Indiana, are guests of Mrs. Thompson's parents, Rev. and Mrs. John Standifer. Richard Reeves entertained a few friends with a boat riding party Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewis, Indiana, were guests of Mrs. Margaret Parker last week. Mrs. Lewis is a niece of Mrs. Parker. Mr. John Young is a patient at a local hospital. He has been ill for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Reeves and daughters, Doris, Diane and Raeanne, have returned to their home in Lakeland, Florida, after a vacation with relatives here.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Garlen Byrd, Walkertown, visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Byrd, last week.

The Young People of the Christopher Church enjoyed an evening of fun Monday on the lawn near the church. They roasted wieners and toasted marshmallows. Afterwards, they gathered in the recreation room for games and contests.

Bible And Missionary Conference Will Begin Independence Day

Many local people will be looking forward this year again to the Bible and Missionary Conference which is to begin on Independence Day. These who like scenery, fresh air, physical exercise, good food for the body and the soul should plan to take in the Conference July 4-9.

The Conference will officially open with supper on Sunday evening at 5:00 o'clock.

Dr. Ford Philpot and his team of musicians will be at Camp Nathanael on Wednesday afternoon, July 7, for the 2:00 o'clock service. They are beginning a two weeks county-wide campaign at Jackson on July 4 in the Lee's College Gymnasium. Dr. Philpot is on television and is a nationally known evangelist. This will be an excellent opportunity to see and hear the whole team.

Each afternoon there will be variety. On Tuesday "Evangelism In Depth for the Appalachian Region" will be presented and on Thursday Rev. Carl Johnson will preach.

There will be inspiration and challenge in every service. You may come for one meeting; for Trenton, New Jersey comes to us highly recommended as a whole conference. No Bible teacher. He will speak each morning at the 10:45 hour and on Monday afternoon at 2:00.

Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think

By S. C. VAN CUREN

The story last week of a former truck line owner claiming that he contributed $130,000 to former Gov. Bert T. Combs' campaign brings into focus Kentucky's outmoded statutes limiting expenditures to $10,000 in a gubernatorial race.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has appointed a committee to make a study of campaign financing, presumably to make recommendations to the 1966 General Assembly to make a change in the law making it more realistic.

Best estimates of knowledgeable political observers here is that a gubernatorial campaign will cost from a million to a million and a half dollars. Consequently numerous committees are formed and many persons handle campaign funds and the candidate is kept in complete ignorance of the financing.

Television time, radio, newspaper and other advertising have skyrocketed costs of conducting a campaign. The $10,000 limit would not cover costs of state headquarters and its telephone and related bills, much less advertising, travel and other expenses necessary to conducting a campaign.

E. H. (Eph) Hoover, the former truck line owner, said in depositions in a civil case in Tennessee that trucking interests contributed $130,000 to a Combs emissary after his primary campaign in 1959.

In another case brought by the Internal Revenue Service for income tax evasion, Hoover pled guilty.

It was in the 1959 campaign that wild political charges were hurled about by Combs supporters that A. B. (Happy) Chandler, then governor, and supporter of Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield for the Democratic nomination against Combs, had half a million in campaign funds stashed away in Cuba and couldn't get to it because of the Castro rebellion.

In the 1963 campaign when Chandler was opposing Governor Edward T. Breathitt for the nomination, John Thomas Catlett of Lexington filed a deposition in Franklin Circuit Court in an income tax case against him claiming he had paid kickbacks in highway equipment deals to emissaries of Chandler. The case is No. 64052 in Franklin Circuit Court and the state has not pressed it to trial.

Revenue Commissioner James E. Luckett said members of the field staff of the Department of Revenue have made a thorough search and have found no property in Catlett's name that is subject to levy.

Catlett was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Louisville May 11, 1964 and charged with evading $90,101.28. The case was set for trial November 29, 1965 at 10 a.m. in Federal Court in Lexington. Luckett said the state will wait to see what luck the federal has in the case. The state now has liens on file against Catlett, Luckett said.

The State Highway Department's much publicized truck purchase deal during the Combs administration with Thurston Cook, Louisville automobile dealer, was another political issue that got a lot of airing.

Back in the Clements administration, there was the Bogie Equipment airing over campaign contributions.

When Combs defeated Waterfield in 1959, Waterfield supporters conducted fish fries all over the state to pay off his campaign deficit.

In the 1963 campaign, Chandler's headquarters ran into debt and some of his supporters had to pay off a $25,000 note they had signed. Breathitt forces later conducted a campaign drive to pay off part of his deficit and contributed to pay off some of Chandler's.

A candidate cannot afford to know how much is spent in his behalf under today's statutes. Maybe Breathitt's committee will come up with recommendations and the 1966 General Assembly will write a realistic law.

H. B. Noble Appointed Chairman Of Kosair Hospital Fund Campaign

Kosair Crippled Children Hospital, 982 Eastern Parkway in Louisville has just announced that Mr. H. B. Noble, Box 707, Hazard, Kentucky has been appointed chairman of Perry County for the 1965 Kosair Hospital Operating Fund Campaign.

As Chairman it will be Mr. Noble's job to organize Perry County and see that it does its part in helping the 1965 Kosair Campaign reach its statewide goal of $225,000.

For thirty-nine years Kosair Hospital has been relentlessly the indigent crippled children of Kentucky regardless of race or creed. During this time everyone of this state's 120 counties has had some of its children in Kosair.

Kosair Hospital makes only two requirements for admission. First, the child must be suffering from a crippling disease or ailment, and secondly, the child's parents must be unable to afford the necessary medical treatment.

However, the magnificence of Kosair Hospital lies in the fact that it is for all Kentuckians. Kosair is here ready, willing and able to serve your child, your grandchild, or your neighbor's child should they ever become crippled. Kosair is an insurance policy that says your child will always have some place to go.

You can't afford not to have this insurance. Mr. Noble suggests that you can either contact him personally or send your contributions directly to Kosair Crippled Children Hospital Operating Fund Campaign, 982 Eastern Parkway, Louisville, Kentucky 40217.

Hazard's Eyesores

One of the best things to come out of the successful campaign to clean-up and beautify Perry County is the way it shows how dirty the City of Hazard is by contrast.

It would seem that a well-organized town like Hazard would have no trouble in being almost spotless. We have regular garbage collection, a city dump, a city street cleaner, and active civic and garden clubs to promote the idea of public cleanliness.

Because of these advantages, there are many attractive places in Hazard. And for streets as busy as ours, they do remain substantially free of entrenched litter, thanks to the trash collection and the street sweeper. Many homes have nice lawns and several businesses work at maintaining an attractive front. Our city park is second to none in cleanliness and natural beauty.

But in spite of these same advantages, there are many terrible eye-sores that the City should be ashamed of. Yet, while the county has worked hard to clean up, to the point of removing some 800 old junk cars, Hazard has stood idly by and done little beyond a normal routine that might be described as mere light dusting.

BOOK REVIEW

All books reviewed in this column are available at the Bobby Davis Memorial Library.

"THE SOURCE"

By James A. Michener

The land called Israel is rich in history. The countryside is saturated with spiritual experience so intense and various that its very air, its rocks and its olive trees vibrate with memories.

James Michener's new book captures this experience and flavor in a panoramic tale of the Jewish people in the land of Israel. He chooses as the frame and site of the novel a small city of the Jews, a township thousands of years old, which lived through many of their trials, which absorbed their history into its stones, and which can be recreated as ahistorical unity. He calls it Makor.

The town of Makor is dead now. It is a mound of debris. Within that debris, layer upon layer, lie the relics of the past. The novel describes how an American archaeologist discovers the history of Makor by digging in the old ruins, moving backward through history as he goes deeper.

Centuries of history are revealed by what the American finds, and by Michener's skillful blending of historic fact and his own fertile author's imagination.

Annexation For The Future

Since it was made public that the City Commission will likely annex Lothair at Thursday's meeting, some residents of Lothair have expressed their opposition to the move, and discussed the possibility of making a separate incorporated city of their community instead.

We can admire the impulse behind this kind of discussion. It is a sign of civic awareness for citizens to meet and talk about local government. It was never expected that Lothair could be annexed without at least some in the community objecting to it, and perhaps even resisting it.

But now, on the eve of the day in which the annexation may actually take place, it seems worth pointing out that immediate concerns are not necessarily the proper things to emphasize in the discussion of the annexation.

We should, instead, take a careful look at the long-range future — and by long-range, we mean 50 to 100 years — and to base our decisions from that broad view point. We should think about our children and the problems they will likely inherit more than we should think about this week, this month, this year.

The 20th century is becoming increasingly complex, and particularly so for small communities that seek to have an orderly, efficient growth. More and more people are living in more and more confined areas, and this produces problems at the same time it creates advantages. The task is to minimize the problems while taking the fullest advantages of urbanization.

The best way for the Hazard community — that community that stretches from Lotts Creek to Christopher — to advance into the coming age of great complexity is as one united people, with a common approach to our common problems. Trying to cope with the difficulties of living close together in a shotgun method, with all our energies and our tools scattered in different directions, is obviously going to waste the best of those energies and the most of our money too.

We can see how it will be a healthy thing for the annexation procedure to be challenged, as it already has been.

But we hope that the promise of opposition will not deter the City Commission and those leaders in Lothair who want to come into the city from doing what they think is right, remembering that we must do what is right not only for ourselves, now, but for those who will inherit the community we create.

The Declaration Of Independence

In Congress, July 4, 1776. The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America:

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government and to provide new Guards for their future security.

Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Officers, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation.

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule in these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connections between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do.

And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Have We Lost The Meaning Of The 4th Of July?

We have invented so many ways to entertain ourselves — picnics, water skiing, outdoor barbecues, gluttonous feasts, riding fast automobiles, the list is endless — that the real purpose of Independence Day has almost been lost in the fun we try to have on all our holidays.

Even the traditional ceremonies that communities across the nation hold on the Fourth of July often miss the real meaning behind this annual observance of ours. The orators try hard, but the immediate significance of Independence Day in 1965 will, if past ceremonies are an indication, be lost in a jumble of generalities about patriotism and freedom.

Certainly these two subjects are the most important things that men can talk about when they meet, and it is a shame that we do not talk about them much any more. But, perhaps one reason the subjects of patriotism and freedom do not hold the magic they use to hold, especially for young people, is that when they are mentioned, it is usually in the context of dry old history, without reference to the world as we know it now.

It's a hard thing to contemplate on water skis, and not many of the holiday orators will mention it, but if the Fourth of July, 1965, has any meaningful function, it is to remind us that almost two hundred years after the famous document was written, most people in the world, and many thousands in the United States, still suffer from the same oppressions that the Colonialists complained of in the Declaration of Independence.

The natural freedoms that England's King George denied to the citizens of the Colonies are still denied to most people of the world.

Read this complaint in the Declaration: "He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries," and think of political graft and corruption in the United States today.

Read this complaint: "For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule in the Colonies," and think of Cuba in 1965.

Read this complaint: "He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power," and think of those South American nations ruled by autocratic military families.

Read this complaint: "For depriving us in many cases of the benefits of Trial by Jury," and think of the several southern states right here in America where Negroes are not allowed to serve as jury members, where it is impossible to convict a white man of a wrong done to a Negro.

Then, while you are thinking about that, read the third paragraph of the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

We should think about these things today, because next Sunday we're going to be too busy picnicing and swimming and eating to give them much consideration. We should try to realize now, before the fun begins, just how courageous a thing it was for the signers of the Declaration to defy the established government of their time and to take the very radical action they did when they decided to try to change the existing, established order so that rights and freedom could be extended to every man.

We should try, before the trip to Buckhorn Lake, to make the connection between what those men did in 1776 and what there is left to do in 1965.

We should study, before the holiday fireworks go up, and try to see the relevance between the Colonialists' fight for their freedom and the American Negro's fight for his.

We should go ahead and try to understand these things. But, honestly speaking, it is doubtful that any of it will be very clear to us. We've become a little smug for that kind of patriotic talk. We prove every time we make the Fourth of July into one big party that once a man has his own personal freedom, even if somebody else did fight to give it to him, that it is hard for that man to understand the longings of those millions of others who have it yet to gain.

LAND OF THE FREE

America, O Power benign, great hearts revere your name,
You stretch your hand to every land, to weak and strong the same
You claim no conquest of the sea, nor conquest of the field,
But conquest for the rights of man, that despots all shall yield.
America, staunch, undismayed, your spirit is our might:
No splendor falls on feudal walls upon your mountain's height,
But shafts of Justice pierce your skies to light the way for all,
A world's great brotherhood of man, that cannot, must not fall.
America, in God we trust, we fear no tyrant's horde:
There's light that leads toward better deeds than conquest by the sword;
Yet our cause is just, if fight we must until the world be free
Of every menace, breed, or caste that strikes at Liberty.
America, home of the brave, our song in praise we bring—
Where Stars and Stripes the winds unfurl, 'tis there that tributes ring;
Our fathers gave their lives that we should live in Freedom's light
Our lives we consecrate to thee, our guide the Might of Right.

New applications for the month totaled 447 bringing the number of active applications to 3,266. Referrels for the month just ended were 222, of this amount 168 were local. Only 40 of the 168 were placed on jobs. Four job seekers were placed out of state and 14 were placed on local farms as employees.

Mayor Seeks Aid For Lothair Services

Hazard Mayor Willie Dawahare left today for Washington, D.C., where he expects to confer with federal officials to determine what types of federal aid are available to Hazard in its effort to expand city services to newly-annexed Lothair as soon as possible.

His main concern is to find ways to finance extension of Hazard's sewage system to Lothair as rapidly as possible. Lothair already receives city water.

Twelve Men Found Innocent In Slaying of Mine Worker

The trial of 12 men in Leslie County Circuit Court in connection with the fatal shooting of Ernest Creech, 39, of Bonnyman at the Blue Diamond Coal Company Mine near Leatherwood early this year has ended with an acquittal of all 12 on the charge of murder.

Sim Gayhart Jr., charged with murder, was found innocent after the jury deliberated only 10 minutes.

Four witnesses said yesterday that Gayhart was in no position to fire the fatal shot, and confederating and according to Leslie County Commonwealth Attorney Lester Burns said the case "certainly will" come before the November term of court.

Murder indictments against Jack Childers and Henry P. Gross were dismissed on a motion by Burns before the acquittal. Burns said he lacked evidence connecting them with the shooting.

Charges of murder against Boyd Couch, Jim Hamilton, Eugene Hensley, Steve Jones, a long-barreled weapon at the Worley Robbins, Lee Sexton truck an instant before the and Jimmy L. Suttles would be shooting.

Man Charged With Shooting Two Customers

Richard Morgan, bartender at Charlie's Place at Darfork, was charged by Deputy Sheriff Gordon Fuzate in connection with the shooting of two customers Saturday afternoon, July 3.

Morgan, charged with shooting with intent to kill allegedly drew a .38 caliber pistol from under the bar and wounded Devin Caudill, 25, in the hand and Harrison Neace, 25, in the upper left arm. Both men are from Bulan.

According to police, Bussy Couch began tossing rocks at the premises Friday night and just before the shooting at 3:00 p. m. Saturday. Couch was also reported to have thrown a beer can at Mrs. Charles Holman, wife of the proprietor. Mrs. Couch tried to evict Couch and an argument started.

Morgan, released on $500 bond, will be tried during the next term of Perry Circuit Court in September.

Caudill and Neace were treated at Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital and released.

Appalachian Road Program Launched At Isom

Henry Ward Asks Road Bond Support

In a speech at a crowded VFW Club Monday night, Kentucky Highway Commissioner Henry Ward described his Department's road-building plans for this region and then urged passage of a $176 million road bond issue to help pay the bill.

His report that 84 miles of new highways connecting Whitesburg with the Mountain Parkway at Campion are guaranteed by the Appalachian Bill if matching funds remain available wasn't exactly news, but some of the details of that future construction did surprise and delight the large audience.

Ward said that engineering plans are finished and rights of way are now being purchased on a 25.8 mile link between Combs and Quicksand, and that the stretch of new road had a completion date of June, 1967, at a cost of $13.5 million.

Another section connecting Hazard and Vico is scheduled for completion in October, 1968 at a cost of $9.7 million.

The 7-mile section between Isom and Whitesburg in Letcher County is expected to be far enough along by next winter to permit letting of contracts for paving.

Ground was broken and construction officially began on this link last Tuesday.

Ward pointed out that all these completion dates are far in advance of the Appalachian Bill's provision, which is a five-year program.

He cautioned, however, that failure to pass the road bond issue might seriously jeopardize the whole Route 15 re-building program because without the bonds, the State may be unable to come up with its 30 per cent share of funds to match federal money from the Appalachian Bill.

He particularly urged Eastern Kentuckians to support the bond issue.

"If we don't get support where we obviously need it, we aren't going to get it anywhere," he said, adding that Western Kentucky was getting a little jealous of all the new roads in Eastern Kentucky and might not be enthusiastic about the road bond issue because so much of the funds would go to the mountain counties.

In a strong appeal for support for the bond issue, Ward pointed to other states who are using the same means to raise highway funds.

He said Ohio had approved a bond issue worth $700 million, West Virginia one worth $200 million, and that North Carolina was considering an issue of $300 million worth.

The dinner was sponsored by the District Better Roads Council.

Two-Dollar Bills Flood Hazard On Weekend

Seale Motor Company was the first Hazard business to notify the Herald it had taken in $400 in two dollar bills last weekend and thus was a year's subscription to the newspaper.

The second business to so notify the Herald was Bailey's Service Station and Restaurant, winning a free newspaper ad.

The Herald sponsored the contest as a means of gauging the volume of business done in Hazard by miners in the Leatherwood section, who were paid in two dollar bills last week.

Other local merchants receiving large amounts of two dollar bills were: J & R Super Market, $500 worth; Scott's Store, $300; Mother Goose Market, $275; Perry Farm Center, $200; Hammonds Gulf, $140; Thrifty Shop, $130; Baker Furniture Company, $128; Gene Baker Motor Company, $100; and Smith Shopping Center, $100.

The crowd, numbering over a thousand, sweltered in 90 degree heat under a cloudless sky as a series of speakers orated an hour and a half.

The Appalachian Group To Save Land And People showed up with signs protesting strip mining and thanking Governor Breathitt for his visit.

Hazard's Rev. M. T. Canada and Mayor Dawahare sat on the speaker's stand with state and federal officials. Rev. Canada delivered the benediction.

These boys were part of a group from Elkhorn Creek in Leslie County who bore signs demanding a road to their homes cut off by Buckhorn Lake.

Lothair Is Annexed

A resolution annexing the community of Lothair to the City of Hazard was passed unanimously by the City Commission last week.

The long-delayed action extended Hazard's city limits to a point just beyond the Nantz Service Station on Highway 15. The old Black Gold commissary is included in the new limits.

(See page 6 of section two in today's Herald for the entire city ordinance which describes in detail the new city limits).

Lothair residents opposing the annexation have 30 days from last Thursday to file a suit of protest.

City Attorney Ernest Faulkner said that if such a suit is filed it would likely be tried in the September term of Perry Circuit Court unless a special term was called for the purpose.

As of today, no formal protest had been lodged with the Circuit Clerk, though the City Commission was handed a protest petition signed by 106 Lothair residents before the ordinance was passed.

The annexation had been discussed in Hazard for several years but the immediate reason for it was the heavy dose of raw sewage Lothair dumps into the Kentucky River, where Hazard gets its drinking water.

The Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission has urged the annexation for several months.

W. W. Smithers, Assistant Executive Director of the Commission, was on hand to witness the historic annexation.

After the meeting Smithers told the City Commission its action was "long past due" and that his office was very pleased.

He said recent samples of Hazard's drinking water showed the bacteriological content to be "exceedingly high," higher than they first realized.

The annexation boosts Hazard's population by an estimated 2,000, up to an estimated grand total of over 8,000.

Dewey Daniel "Fair" After Two Strokes

Several of our prominent Hazard citizens are sick this week. Mr. Dewey Daniel, President of Peoples Bank, who suffered two strokes last weekend, is listed in fair condition at Mount Mary Hospital.

Dr. E. S. Carter was taken to a Lexington hospital last week end with an oxygen deficiency, but is now at home.

Dr. M. B. Payne still remains very sick at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Louisville.

Truck-Weight Controls Sought

With a request from 40 petitioners in the Lost Creek section of Perry County the Perry Fiscal Court has asked the State to enforce the weight limits against coal trucks using secondary roads.

The governing body of eight magistrates voted, 5-0 last Friday to ask the Kentucky Department of Motor Transportation to send in scales, weighmen, and officers to cite into court drivers of vehicles that exceed the state imposed limit.

The limit is 16 gross tons on secondary roads. Most modern coal trucks exceed the limit even without a load and most secondary roads are used by workers hauling coal to tip-ple.

Spokesmen for the local coal industry said the action, if it is made to stick, will "knock the livelihood out of Perry County and Hazard."

1,000 People Celebrate New Road Construction

Ground was broken Tuesday near Isom in Letcher County to officially begin the first road construction project in Kentucky as part of the Appalachian Development Program.

Bulldozers and workmen began the first actual earth-moving at a signal from Governor Breathitt, following speaking ceremonies before about 1,000 people in a field a short distance away.

The new work is made possible through a "quick-start" grant from the Appalachian Bill, passed earlier this year by Congress.

The work begun near Isom begins a 2.7 mile project to Van, the first link in an eventual 7 mile stretch leading to Whitesburg, which is expected to be completed in November, 1966 at a cost $4 million.

The Isom-to-Whitesburg road is part of an 84 mile extension of the Mountain Parkway from Campion to the Letcher County seat, scheduled for total completion in 1968.

The new Kentucky 15 will be a vast improvement over the old. The present 18 foot width will be expanded to 24 feet. Shoulders two feet wide will be added to each side. Curves will be eliminated or eased, and in some places a third lane will be added to facilitate passing.

Before signalling the road work, Governor Breathitt told the sweltering crowd that "As we break new ground for a road which will cut through our mountains and guide commerce into our valleys, we do more than point the way. We build into this new road a basic foundation for total development action for our Region."

Breathitt concluded his remarks with a strong personal plea for Eastern Kentucky's support of his $176 million road bond issue on the ballot in next November's election.

Without the bond issue, he said, "virtually none of these great new programs for Appalachia will be available to us."

Kentucky must contribute 30 per cent of the cost of the Appalachian Development Program's road building.

The Governor spoke near the end of an hour and a half of speech making. But the words that seemed to catch most attention of the crowd were printed on sign-boards held aloft by three groups of quiet demonstrators.

One was a group of Harlan people, partly made up of businessmen and Chamber of Commerce representatives, which carried signs demanding the re-building of US 119 through Harlan.

Another was the Appalachian Group To Save Land And People, on hand to continue its strip-mining protest.

The third group was a delegation made up mostly of young people from Elkhorn Creek in Leslie County, whose homes are frequently cut off from the outside world when Buckhorn Lake is high.

They carried signs pleading for a road to the head of their hollow.

This group appeared briefly outside the VFW Monday to carry their plea to Highway Commissioner Henry Ward, who was the principal speaker at a dinner inside.

They were met by City Police, sheriff's deputies, Leslie County Judge George Wooton, Ward's Executive Assistant Billy Joe Hall and newsmen.

Hall and Judge Wooton heard their complaints. Hall said he would give Ward their message. Judge Wooton reminded the group that he had a bulldozer on location in Elkhorn Creek.

But both officials gave the Leslie Countians a mild scolding for their demonstration and they removed their signs and left.

Flag Raising

Speckie Cornett Captures Title Of Cisco Golf Tournament

Lowell "Speckie" Cornett Jr. of Lothair, captured the title for the 7th annual Finley L. Cisco Memorial Golf Tournament held last weekend at the Hazard Golf Club.

Cornett fired a one under par 67 in the final round to defeat Don Cain, of Louisville, who came in with a one over par 69 for the final 18 holes.

Kenny Tate, the defending champion, lost out in his first match of the championship flight. Curt Duff was the man who disposed of Tate.

A total of 95 golfers entered the meet that got underway last Friday with the qualifying round.

Out of the 95 entries only 16 survived the championship flight cut off.

Hazard High School Golfer Jack Duff failed to make the cut off in his bid for the title.

In the qualifying round Carl Ray Fraley of Floyd County was medalist for the tourney with a 67 score.

Fraley was the tourney champion in 1963.

Cornett fired a 70 to qualify for the final round and won all four matches on his way to the crown. This was the third appearance in the meet for the Hazard High School graduate.

The 16 golfers in addition to Tate, Cornett and Cain who made the final round were:

Curt Duff, Ray Fraley, Bob Eubanks, Maxwell Barrett, Henry Womble, Jack Nelms, Carl Ray Fraley, Bill Bowles, Jim Tufts, Judge Miller, Dee Ratliff, Speck Cornett, and Goodloe Napier.

Cornett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Speck Cornett of Lothair, will take part in the Paintsville Open Tourney to be held this weekend in Paintsville.

Joining Cornett from Hazard in the Paintsville event are Kenny Tate and Don Cain.

Speckie graduated from Hazard this past spring and wants to attend either Eastern or Western State College.

For winning the tourney he received a nice set of golfing irons.

Cain, the runnerup, received a set of golfing woods for his effort in the three day meet.

Roscoe Davis Given Conservation Award

At the 30th annual convention of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, which was held at Paducah on June 11, 12, and 13, Roscoe Davis, Hazard, was presented the Conservation of Wildlife Award in cooperation with The National Wildlife Federation and The Sears-Roebuck Foundation for outstanding contributions to the wise use and management of the nation's natural resources.

Clyde Hubbard, Louisville, was elected to a third term as president of the League and Dr. Robert L. Webb, Grayson, was selected as Sportsman of the Year. Reports from various committees were heard and informative addresses on conservation were given.

Among the speeches was the one honoring Roscoe Davis as follows:

"He is not a sometime conservationist.

To him the protection, the preservation, the perpetuation of fish and wildlife is a way of life.

Born of a pioneer family that had settled in the rugged mountains of Eastern Kentucky, the man to be honored today learned his early conservation lessons at his father's knee and at the end of a keen switch in the hands of his father.

When the latter impression was necessary. His father was his early teacher and those lessons on conservation have lived and grown stronger and more influential.

His role in wildlife and fish reads like a chapter from a best seller on conservation. He was one of the organizers of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen back in the Thirties. He served as its regional vice president for 15 years. In the Twenties he helped organize a sportsman's club in his own county and served in every official capacity his club had to offer.

Along about this time he waged an almost one-man battle against pollution from coal mining and it was largely through his never-yielding attitude on stream pollution that some of the very first fines to be levied against mining companies were assessed. In his early days there was no forestry organization to speak of and he brought about an awakening to the great danger of forest fires.

His crusade for wildlife conservation is implemented by a column which he writes for the Hazard Herald each week. A section of the Editorial page is devoted to Roscoe's Roundup and most usually a good conservation lesson may be learned from his column. It is one of the most popular features of the Herald.

He has worked in every organization in enlightening the people to the need for fish and wildlife conservation—the Boy Scouts, the 4-H clubs; the Future Farmers, the Girl Scouts—all have learned a conservation lesson because of this man. He was a leader in the establishment of public hunting grounds while a member of the Fish and Wildlife Commission. He served on that Commission from 1951 through 1963 and was chairman in 1954, 1958 and 1960, always with the theme of wildlife conservation uppermost in his mind. That is the pattern of this man who is to receive this honor today.

He more or less appointed himself as a guardian of that great woods bird—the ruffed grouse. He has cautiously watched this population grow and as it has grown he has advocated longer seasons and larger bag limits. If he has a pet it is the rugged ruffed grouse, which typified the character of the man to receive this award.

His budding desire to perpetuate those things in the fields, the woods and streams to future generations continues now. Last year he devoted much of his time to lecturing school children, at church meetings, before civic clubs and at homecomings, urging strict attention to conservation.

In recent action he acted to obtain for his people a dam across the Kentucky River which provides a fishing pool for the anglers and a swimming and play area for the outdoor recreationists.

He is working to bring to the mountain projects that will better that community. He was a founder of La Citadelle Motel which has attracted visitors and is a splendid contribution to the mountain area. He is a prime mover in the Magic Mountain Project; he is a wide awake booster for his entire community and state.

A hunter and fisherman, a man who plays the game fairly and squarely, but one who will not compromise where fish and wildlife is endangered—that pretty well sums up the characteristics of this man to be honored today. And so, it is a certainty that the right man Roscoe Davis, has been selected for this Conservation of Wildlife Award.

Local Golfers Enter Tourney

Six local golfers, one fresh from a tournament victory, will tee off tomorrow in the Paintsville Open Golf Meet to be held at the Paintsville Course.

Speckie Cornett, winner of last week's Finley L. Cisco Memorial Golf Tourney, Kenny Tate, former FLC champ, Butch Mitchell, Hazard High School Golfer Jack Duff, Dexter Melton and Ron Combs will represent Hazard in the three day meet.

County Seeks Truck Control

of the situation. He said about 400 trucks are operated by independent truckers in Perry County and that each realizes an average of around $10,000.00 a year profit from his truck.

"His profit comes only after he meets his monthly payment of around $650.00 on the truck, plus somewhere in the neighborhood of $320.00 a month for oil, gas, tires, maintenance and depreciation," the spokesman said.

"He can't just sit by and see his business destroyed. The truckers are real brave boys too," he continued.

Mine Official Issues Warning About Dangers Following Vacation Period

Commissioner A. H. Mandt of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, Lexington, has issued a warning regarding mining dangers following the miners' vacation period.

Records show that a large number of mine injuries occur when men return to work after a vacation. Some of these accidents result from conditions which arise when a mine is idle for a short period of time, but out the shift.

Mandt cautioned all underground workers to make a thorough examination of the roof in their working places when they enter the mine and at frequent intervals throughout a shift.
